

The document outlines significant changes to the State Farm Personal Car Policy, which replaces the previous Car Policy 9810A with the new multicar format, allowing coverage for one or more vehicles. Key revisions include updated definitions, such as the term "temporary substitute car," which now encompasses vehicles replacing newly acquired cars and clarifies coverage applicability. The definition of "your car" indicates that a replaced vehicle remains insured until the policyholder notifies the insurer of its removal. Under Uninsured Motor Vehicle Coverage, all occupants of listed vehicles are covered, with stacking options available that multiply limits based on the number of vehicles. Notably, exclusions have been added, including no coverage for court-ordered restitution or injuries resulting from nuclear incidents. The term "Daily Rental Charge" has been updated to "Daily Transportation Charge," now covering commercial transportation reimbursement. General terms have been revised to clarify required out-of-state coverage and the method of policy notices, which can now be provided in any legally permissible manner. Additionally, the Limited Coverage in Mexico provision does not apply to No-Fault Coverage. This notice serves as a summary of changes and does not alter the original policy terms or conditions. For further details, policyholders are encouraged to refer to their policy booklet or contact their agent.
