

The Individual Affidavit form from the California Department of Insurance requires detailed personal and professional information from the applicant. It includes sections for the applicant's name, aliases, sex, date and place of birth, physical characteristics, citizenship status, Social Security number, and driver's license information. The form also inquires about the applicant's affiliations with insurance entities, educational background, professional memberships, ownership of insurer stock, employment history, and residential history over the past ten years. Additionally, it asks about any past bankruptcies, legal violations, professional license issues, civil actions for fraud, and involvement in regulatory actions or insolvencies related to insurance entities. The applicant must affirm the accuracy of their responses and provide a signature, along with the date and location of signing. This affidavit serves as a comprehensive declaration of the applicant's qualifications and history relevant to their application in the insurance sector.
