

In the event of an accident, it is important to remain calm and assess any injuries or damage, seeking medical assistance if necessary. You should call the police to file an accident report and stay at the scene unless your safety is compromised. Limit discussions about the accident to the police and your Allstate Agent or claims representative, and avoid admitting fault. Gather essential details at the scene, including information about the other driver, witnesses, and the accident location. It is crucial to report even minor accidents to Allstate immediately, as they are available 24/7. You can contact your Allstate Agent, call 1-800-ALLSTATE (1-800-255-7828), or file a claim online at allstate.com. To check the status of your claim, reach out to your Allstate claim representative, your Agent, or log into your account at allstate.com. For further information about claims, visit allstate.com/claims.